LITTLE INTEREST IN ELECTION IN CONNELLVILLE TOMORROW.

Hottest Campaign Both for School Director and Constable
Has Been Waged Up in the Fourth Ward.

THE BOND ISSUE IN NEW HAVEN

Has Absorbed All the Interest on That Side of the River and Prediction Is Freely Made That It Will Carry.

The election in Connellville tomorrow will be quiet. The liveliest interest centers in the Fourth Ward where the election of two School Directors and a Constable ought to bring out a good vote. In the First Ward B. P. Wallace and John Kessler are nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. They will have no opposition or at least none is in sight at this time, and if any does develop it will not be very much in evidence at the First Ward polls tomorrow. For School Director in the First J. S. Darr and A. J. Aske have made a thorough canvass. With the support of the Republicans in the ward they will easily be elected. A good vote is being urged to come out. P. J. Harrison and B. H. Marshall are the Democratic candidates in the First Ward. The former, it is charged, lined up with the opposition to the Neshannock in the School Board after he had been elected by their votes to succeed E. T. Norton when he moved out of the First Ward and left the Board.

J. W. Mitchell, Republican candidate for Constable, will be elected over John R. Beatty, Democrat, who was appointed to the place after the death of the late Louis Opperman. There is no fight in the Second Ward. Constable B. Rottler has no opposition for Constable and there are no elections for School Director or Town Council.

The Third has a fight for School Director, but there is never much hope for other than the Democratic candidates there. They are R. G. Fordyce and Crawford Stillwagon against F. C. Rose and E. G. Hall on the Republican ticket. Charles Wilson is the Democratic candidate for reelection as Constable. Rose and Hall have been over the ward and expect to make a very favorable showing when the vote is counted tomorrow evening.

The Fourth Ward has J. A. Armstrong and Harry Cook, Republicans, against B. J. Thomas and Ralph Hunt as candidates for School Director. Armstrong is the candidate for the long term. George Hetzel and J. T. Crossland have waged a hot fight for Constable. The latter has held the office for ten years. Hetzel has made a lively campaign. He has a good record back of him, is a clean cut citizen and officer and predictions are being made this afternoon that he will take the gainst Joseph's scalp tomorrow.

The candidates for Auditor are Clyde Whitley and James B. Stader, Democrat. No effort has been made by either candidate to land the office. They are leaving it strictly to the voters.

The bond issue has absorbed all the election interest in New Haven. Predictions are being made on both sides today that each will win. The opinion of good citizens is that the bond issue proposition will pass. A citizen of New Haven said this morning to a reporter for The Courier:

"Lately there appeared in your paper a couple of communications, one, a statement of the borough's condition which, as there has been no correction attempted, must be accepted as true, another, a pessimistic narrative, sounding a warning against improvements because they do not increase values. Yet there same parties are now demanding ten times the amount for lots on paved streets that they asked before the improvements were made. They tell us that this is only the natural increase. Lots in other parts of the town don't seem to share this enormous increase, as they can be purchased today as cheap as they could 20 years ago. We are warned against the responsibility we might place upon posterity. Well, we are glad to hear that the writer is interested along that line.

"However that is not the question before the voters. It will be an impossibility for this borough to make any improvements without the means to do so. Our taxes, according to the statement submitted will have to be increased. Shall we increase them to pay present indebtedness and keep on ploughing through the mud or shall we use it in paying interest on money to put our thoroughfares in such condition that it will induce people to build and eventually increase our tax duplicate so as to pay off the debt without any further increase in taxes? That paved streets will increase values is a fact too well known to dispute. The State roads, which we are now building would, according to some people's views, be a sinful waste of money; yet when they are built farms adjoining them are increased two-fold in value. Lots increase fully as much, not the prices asked by some people, but the actual value.

"The people who are opposed to the bond issue you will find are opposed to anything in the line of progress. In case the issue is authorized, no one thinks for one moment that this amount of money would be borrowed unless needed to pay the borough's share of the improvements which would be petitioned for. I have ample confidence in the Councilmen, whom I believe will be elected to handle this matter in a judicious manner. I certainly am in favor of it."

WAS VERY BAD.

William Yowler Fined $20 for Being Drunk and Disorderly Upon the Streets.

William Yowler of South Connellville was fined $20 Sunday morning by Burgess A. D. Seaton for being drunk and disorderly. Yowler with several companions Saturday afternoon was boisterous along the streets and acting very disorderly. Yowler bumped into people along the streets and was also charged with throwing beer upon several citizens. The police station was called and Officers Francis and McDonald were detailed to haul them up. After tracing them over town for some time they finally located Yowler. Yowler said he didn't think he had committed all the offenses that had been charged upon against him, but the evidence was strong against him.

One lot of $10 for drunkenness and disorderly conduct and one for $3.50 was left Saturday night. There were no arrests made Sunday and no hearings held this morning. The battle is again empty.

FAYETTE CITY, Feb. 17.—Morgan Wright, a former resident of Brownsville, is at the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, in a critical condition from a bullet wound inflicted by an unknown negro. Wright went to the assistance of Joseph Pratten, a foreigner, whom he saw was being held up by several negroes. Wright stepped over to secure a stone and the negro ran at him and shot him in the abdomen. They then calmly proceeded to finish the job of taking $52 and a gold watch from Pratten's pocket. A foreigner who was walking along with Wright was unmolested, and as soon as the two negroes had completed the robbery they made off.

Pratten and the foreigner helped Mr. Wright to town and arrangements were made to take the man to the Monongahela City hospital, but these were changed and he was taken to Pittsburgh, where reports today it is hardly likely that he will recover.

County Detective Alex McBeth and assistant, Frank McLaughlin, are here today investigating the circumstances of the shooting and it is probable that there will be several raids on negro camps made this afternoon by all the officers of this section, headed by County Detective McBeth.

It is alleged that at Vicksburg the defendants gave a note for $5,000 to finance the Dayton, Deland & St. Johns River railroad and that August 9, 1906, it was placed in the Title & Trust Company. Payment was never made. Robinson & McKean entered the suit.

Denk paid one-third of the purchase money, but has since failed to pay the balance.

A transcript of the record of the case brought by J. C. McClellan, John Nugent and A. W. Hyde against Geo. J. Plunk of Brownson has been returned to the court by Judge J. C. Brownfield, who found a verdict for the plaintiff, from which the defendant appealed. The case grew out of an alleged offer of $10 reward for the arrest of Joseph Plunk. Plunk, it is alleged by the plaintiffs, offered the reward and after the arrest refused to pay it.

A PIECE OF STRING.

It Plays a Prominent Part in the Life of a Man.

Writing from Japan, an American says: "You must come here to appreciate some of the quaint customs and usages which contact with other peoples has not yet driven out. To read about them gives you only a poor idea. For instance, did you ever know what an important thing a piece of string is here? The children, we know, idlers, servants, all carry pieces of string in case of emergency. With us the emergency would arise only when a parcel had to be done up, but the Japanese piece of string is a first aid to the injured, to repair a rent in his clothing, to fix a broken down Japanese, to mend tools, to take measurement, and in fact, the string is his universal fast friend. The nearest use to which it is put, according to my way of thinking, is when a piece of string arrests a man, ties a bit of string about the arrested man's wrist and then leads him by the end of the thin Japanese fether to the lockup. You ask, 'Why doesn't the Japanese break the string and find a gateway?' He could, but he would not. That's where the respect for the law comes in, and the bit of string holds the man as securely as though he were manacled by our own humane child steel, nickel plated and snap locked method."—New York Tribune.

Dried Elderberry Leaves in Asthma.

If you will gather leaves from an elderly bush, when they are green and for them dry and then put them into a pillow and sleep upon them nightly for about three months, said a Petersburg (Tenn.) man, "they will cure the worst case of asthma. After they are dried the leaves have a peculiar but pleasing odor. By inhaling this odor the asthma is cured. I know a number of people who cured themselves of asthma by sleeping on dried elderberry leaves."—Nashville Tennessean.

A VALID OBJECTION.

Young Sheridan's Ready Wit Saved Him a Bitching.

Richard Sheridan, a student early evinced a genius for getting something for nothing and, seeing the door of the refectory had inadvertently been left unlocked, peeped in and saw a huge basket of grapes freshly gathered from the orchard.

Stoutly closing the door and approaching the grapes, he then addressed them: "If I publish the bones of marriage between Richard Brunsley Sheridan and these grapes, is there any one to forbid the bones?" And, having no reply to his query, he proceeded to fill his breadbasket from the other basket with great gusto. But retribution was to follow, for the class being assembled the master called upon Richard Brunsley Sheridan to stand forth and joined with him name the ominous name of Walker, who was the trustee of the school and selected from his weight and size to mount the culprit upon his shoulders in order that the master might get a firm surface upon which to use the birch with effect.

Sheridan being duly mounted and appropriately denuded of superfluous raiment, the master thus addressed him: "I publish the bones of marriage between Richard Brunsley Sheridan and this birch. Is there any just cause or impediment why these two parties should not be joined in holy matrimony?"

"Hold!" yelled Sheridan.

"Well," said the master.

"To which Sheridan said, 'Why, sir, the parties are not agreed!'"

"This being not only witty, but apt, as being a valid objection in point of law, Sheridan was requested to retire and restore himself to his former position, and the uncontrollable laughter of all concerned, including the head master,—Erebus.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT.

The Most Brilliant Illumination Is Not Always the Best.

A writer in an engineering magazine offers some disconcerting information on the subject of illumination, (disconcerting because the reader will probably find that he has been, hitherto, concerning following a course of procedure there described as injurious. For instance, in the case of eye strain he may have felt that even the dim light by which he worked was too strong, and so turned down the light, thus increasing the difficulty, or what is more likely to be the case, when the strain has been caused by too brilliant illumination he fancied that what is needed is stronger light and so increases it.

Overstrain from too bright a light is said to manifest itself in an itching sensation in the eyeballs, with the tendency to rub the eyes for relief. The proper course, then, is to see that the light is more perfectly diffused or softened and that it falls in the right direction. After these precautions have been taken it is worth while to consider the quantity of light, this trial to continue long enough in time for the eyes to become fully adjusted to the change. The value of illumination is not to be judged by the apparent brightness of the lights when looked at directly—the brighter the light the better—but by the effect on the object to be looked at, and the most desirable effect, so far as the eyes are concerned, is not always produced by the most brilliant lights,—industrial stars.

Set the Pace.

Young Mabel had a habit when soup was served at the table of mashing her cranium or head in it until it was a great mess. Her mother made many efforts to have her correct this stolid peevish habit.

One day there was to be company at the table, and the mother said: "Now, Mabel, Mrs. Brown is to dine with us tonight, and I want you to set the table just as nicely as she does. Mabel promised faithfully to follow the example set by Mrs. Brown, and the dinner opened with every promise of a fine time. However, Mabel was under a pale of very sleep eyes on Mrs. Brown and in an instant darted forth at the top of her voice: "Oh, mamma, Mrs. Brown is 'mashing!' May I?"

A Man to Be Envid.

"Do you know," remarked a visitor to a Broadway hustler, "I'm always inclined to envy the clerk in a hotel like this. He is always well roomed and smiling, has a wider acquaintance among the wealthy or well to do than I can ever hope to have and is always so aggressively at peace with the world and himself, also in years, more of them than not, a diamond scepter or plus which is certainly beyond me. It's a pretty comfortable berth."

Several hours later the hotel clerk reached for his coat and hat. As he left the office he turned to a comrade: "Say, Ned, can you let me have $10 till the first? Rent due at home tomorrow, and I'm shy. Doctor's bills hit me pretty hard this time, and I don't want to be awake tonight if I can help it."—New York Globe.

Had Tried Electricity.

A benevolent gentleman attempted to converse with the motherly old lady who sat next to him in the railway carriage. He discovered that she was very deaf, and the conversation was established by shouting.

"You are very deaf aren't you, madam?" exclaimed, followed by the benevolent gentleman.

"I am so," was the reply, "and haven't been able to do a thing for it." "Have you ever tried electricity?" shouted the kind hearted man.

"Yes," she said, nodding vigorously, "I was struck by lightning last summer."—London Graphic.

INSULTS TO ROYALTY.

Some of the Things That Constitute Lèse Majesty in England.

Many people think that lese majesty—giving insult to royalty—is not a crime in Great Britain. The English statute books, however, contain many penalties for such offences.

Placing a postage stamp on a letter upside down is a punishable offense, as is also the defacement of a coin bearing the royal image. This is insulting the king's effigy.

Private individuals may not raise the royal standard over their dwellings. This is the emblem of the royal authority to be displayed only where the king is present.

While an applicant may talk against royalty in the abstract as much as he chooses, contemptuous or insulting personal references to the reigning sovereign opens the offender to a heavy fine and imprisonment.

The slightest slap upon the face of the king or queen—or any other part of the anatomy, for that matter—is punishable with the death penalty. In the reign of Queen Victoria a Lieutenant Fane struck her across the face with his cane. He was sentenced to death, but the queen commuted his sentence.

It is likewise a crime to bring the uniform of the sovereign into contempt. To garb a low comedian or a villain of the stage in a discarded uniform of the army or the navy is sufficient to bring heavy censure from the government. For this reason theatrical managers usually see to it that the uniforms worn are not exactly copies of the real things.

One on the Teacher.

Among the corps of instructors in one of Washington's high schools is a woman highly esteemed as a teacher of American history. The class under her care had under consideration one day topics concerning the civil war when one volunteered, in illustration of some point, a lurid account of a battle in which, he claimed, an uncle of his had participated.

The teacher interposed to observe that the anecdote could hardly be correct, as the uncle in question was near her own age and she was not born until after the close of the war.

At this the boy seemed a trifle abashed at being so evidently in the wrong. After a few moments of embarrassed silence he said, with the naive air of one who has much the best of the situation: "Oh, but, Miss Blank, I did not mean the Revolutionary war!"—Pittsburgh Leader.

Not Qualified.

"Did you intend to drown yourself?" asked the magistrate at Marylebone court when a cab driver was remanded on a charge of attempted suicide.

"No, I cannot swim," replied the man.—London Mail.

THE ALDRICH BILL WILL HELP BONDS

Boroughs and Cities If It Becomes a Law.

'DORSEMENT BY GOVERNMENT

Would Be Given Bonds on Which Banks Could Issue Paper Currency to the Amount of 90 Per Cent of Face Value on Deposit

officials of every city and town throughout Pennsylvania in which a serious and some sort of municipal movement is either contemplated or actually under way are deeply interested in the course of the Aldrich emergency currency bill which is now being discussed in the United States Senate and is to be voted upon in a short time.

It is passed and the bankers and business men generally believe that it will be the value of bonds sold by municipalities in the future will be materially increased by a provision of the bill. This provision makes it obligatory upon the government to accept from the banks of the currency in times of panic or financial emergency bonds in exchange for the issue of currency just the same as silver and gold is now accepted. The banks will be permitted to deposit the bonds with the government and to issue paper currency to the amount of 90 per cent of their true value.

This gives bonds of this kind a virtually the endorsement of the government as a high class security and makes them generally acceptable to the banks or through the banks. This naturally will give them higher value than they ever had before and will induce higher bidding for them and more of it.

Cities and towns of the St. to which are therefore to issue bond in a short time will be benefited if the Aldrich bill is passed.

Philadelphia for instance will issue $17,600,000 in bonds in April or May and Mayor Rossburn in discussing the Aldrich bill declares that if it is passed the bidding for these bonds will be higher than it would otherwise be. He would like to see the bill passed.

Mayor Klendall of Wilkesboro where about $1,000,000 in bond will be sold to provide money for eliminating grade crossings has to a large time advocated the government accepting municipal bonds as security for the issue of currency and he favors this feature of the Adrich bill and hopes that it will pass.

Easton is to issue several hundred thousands in bonds and is also deeply interested and so are other municipalities throughout the State whose revenues will be thus increased if the Aldrich bill passes.

MINERS PROTEST

Against Character of Flameless Powder Operators in Pittsburgh District Require

Coal miners in the Pittsburg district who were notified of the prohibition of the use of black powder in the mines of the district complained 4 of the district last month and who have since objecting to it have pronounced the prohibition to be just this order. In fact up to the present time 10 of the mines of the Pittsburg Coal and the River Coal companies have been ordered to suspend the use of the material of the mines employed here to use the flameless powder and insisting on the use of the black powder which he or others hold is dangerous and likely to cause explosions of gas into too much damage to life and property.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Minn Workers organization was held last week at which a report was made of certain steps that had been made with flamethrowers. It was decided by the committee of the Pittsburgh Coal Company during the past week that the find of a mildest powder is not true but the test is estimated by the miners should that it reduced the burning power of the miners fully 10 per cent. When this report was made the Executive Board announced that it would not insist upon the miners using flamethrowers but would let the new rule

LOW LIFE IN LONDON

Father Vaughan Tells of Horrible Conditions in Sweatshops

London Feb. 14.—Father Bernard Vaughan, a brother of the late Cardinal Vaughan, speaking in his parish church here during the course of a powerful lecture in behalf of the Bill for limiting the hours of the employment of women, told the home of the common people, the sweatshops, where the women workers in shops have a graphic illustration of the manner in which the poor workers in the east and of London are compelled to live in a small room. He said that night he was occupied by more than 100 in two persons, that he was in a room where the women were packed like sardines in the oven.
